Odessa

The city of Odessa is known to every one and at the same time unknown to practically anyone. It is known for its history, its strategic position at the shores of the Black Sea, its sub tropical climate, its unique city centre with so many influences from the past, its gentle and beautiful people, its trading mentality and its uniqueness.

But Odessa was a part of the Soviet Union for many years and became somewhat isolated. People needed a specific reason to travel there as the capital Kiev took very much the centre position.

Now travelling to Odessa is easy and it becomes the highest time to enjoy the many characteristics of Odessa. We mention just a few here and of course full and detailed information can be supplied as well.

Situated at the Black Sea it is no wonder that Odessa has a turbulent past. Although the city is relatively young, many people, just to name Russians, Turks, Greeks, Cossacks have occupied the city and have left their presence. That makes the city so interesting.

When we think of Odessa we get a romantic and mysterious feeling. We want to know more about this place. It is certainly not a metropolis but it has the grandeur of a big city. Still everything is reachable and easy to be overseen. Is it because of the famous novel «Odessa File» by Frederick Forsyth, is it because of the Potemkin stairs in the great Russian movie: «Battleship Potemkin» directed by Sergei Eisenstein? Or is it because so many cultural influences mix in Odessa and make it a melting place of excitement and real life.

It can only partly be understood by words, it has to be felt in real. Odessa excites you and amazes you. See and feel it by yourself.

Odessa has become a city of freedom where the population differs from all other cities in the former Soviet Union. One can feel its trading mentality, its optimism and belief in life throughout the city. The European atmosphere of the beginning of the 20th century makes it a cosy and friendly place. Being a city where not long ago in every café there was a piano player who played in several cafes on one evening, to be replaced by an other one; still in Odessa music is everywhere and beach and city entertainment knows no closing time.

It is not so easy to find a place that is very attractive to both young and elderly people, Odessa is the perfect example.

One of the major attractions of Odessa is its climate. A typical subtropical climate invites you to visit the beaches. Long stretched beaches of sand with beach cafes and discotheques make life there very entertaining.

It is often called the French Riviera of Eastern Europe and once visited, it will be never forgotten.

Ukraine

Ukraine was a part of the Soviet Union for decades and together with Russia formed the core countries of this communist conglomerate. In 1991 it declared itself an independent nation again.

Again, as during many centuries Ukraine was a part of Russia, Poland, Hungary or Romania. This itself explains the turbulent history of the country. It is an old country whereby it is noticeable that in fact Kiev created Russia.

It is a large country (the size of France) with around 42.000.000 inhabitants. It is well known for its agricultural power and the “black earth” is known to everyone and stands for its fertile soil.

Next to its major agricultural production (e.g. grains, sunflowers) Ukraine was during the Soviet time an important industrial country and cities as Donetsk, Mariupol, Dnepropetrovsk, Zaporozhye played a very important role in the industrial production of the Soviet Union. And still it is an enormous industrial power, in spite of a lot of outdated plants and in spite of the separatists uproar.

The cities of Ukraine are famous for its beauty and its culture, especially Kiev, Odessa, Kharkov and L'viv. Ukraine is dominated by the river Dnepr that cuts the country in the length in two parts. Ukraine borders in the south to the Black Sea, in the east to Russia, in the north to Russia and in the west to Poland and Romania, with the Carpathians as a popular mountain area.

Politically Ukraine has been very unstable since its independency which has led to problems in all fields and this has set Ukraine economically back to still a low level of welfare and development. Hopefully with the growing influence of Europe this will change for better at last. The people in Ukraine are a strong selling point: friendly, helpful, hospitable. A real pleasure. The country is safe for travelling and staying.

The present situation in the vast majority of Ukrainian territory is stable now. The South Eastern part of the country is still the centre of unrest and still is a potentially explosive area. It is not likely that this part of Ukraine will be brought back in the situation from before the independency fights. But it is very possible that a situation will be achieved whereby a certain form of independency will satisfy the parties involved, on condition that Russia is not using this area as a political weapon.

The country is regaining confidence and more and more Western organizations are coming back or starting, be it on a much lower level than before. Only time and political peace will stimulate this process further. The country is more and more managed by younger generations and they look hopefully to the future in a more balanced way than the older generations.

The future of Ukraine depends for an important part on the political developments in Eastern Europe and especially with Russia. Ukraine will have to find a way to balance in between the European Community and Russia. A difficult task that undoubtedly will not be easy, but will be necessary.

Trip and transport

The trip can start from any international airport or, if that is preferred, it can start in Odessa.

The concept of Odessa Trips is that we fully take care of our guests but with preserving all possible freedom. We will meet you at the airport and luxury transport will take you to the 4 star hotel. The hotel choice can be made by you and if you leave the choice to us we will select an hotel in the old city in a quiet street so that you can enjoy the atmosphere of Odessa to the maximum. During the whole trip there will be private transport available to take you to many places in the city but also to interesting places in the region.

The program is in principle a mixture between visiting landmarks, traditional places, museums and the lovely beaches with their lively atmosphere. To a high extent your preferences dictate the program.

As Odessa Trips has a local partner who is well-experienced in organizing visits often accompanied by well reputed guides, practically all wishes can be positively answered. In principle all cost are included in the price, except food (breakfast only) and drinks are for own account which means that a carefree life can be enjoyed.
